PROGRAM NOTES

Chaconne
(1681 - 1767) Germany

Georg Phillip Telemann

Georg Phillip Telemann was a contemporary of J. S. Bach and George F. Handel. He was primarily self taught in music, yet he still managed to be a leader in his times. Possibly because of his lack of formal music training he managed to absorb all of the musical styles of his day. He turned out an incredible number of works, including forty operas, hundreds of orchestral suites, forty-four passions, twelve cantatas, concertos, ceremonial pieces, trio sonatas and keyboard works. The chaconne presented here (a Spanish dance in a slow tempo) was one of six movements from a suite in G major. It is perhaps the loveliest of the six movements.
